Go "Fourth!"

Hello, Parents!

Hope this finds everyone healthy and rested after a nice spring break. OK....I can't believe its been 3 weeks. It seems like just yesterday. Time is going by so quickly. I can hardly believe we're well into the fourth quarter. I'm starting to miss your kids already. I get that way. With only a short time left I begin to consider the fact that we don't have much time as a "family" left. And when time seems to be in fast forward, I know that six weeks will whiz by. It's also that time of year when I begin to mention daily to the kids that even though the weather is nice and they'd rather be out of doors, we're not and that every day counts. It's important we do our best all the way to the end. I'm sure I can count on you to deliver the same message. We've just finished the spring assessment in reading and writing. Math will be coming in a few weeks. In math class we're continuing to work on fractions. Although we have met a few stumbling blocks along the way, kids are catching on well. Probably a few weeks more and we'll finish up the year with decimals. In science, kids are studying energy and will be learning the history of kites. As you know, Mr. Aschbrenner is in for Mr. Schoville for 6 weeks as Mr. Schoville recovers from hip replacement surgery. He is doing well, by the way.

That's about it. Read below for important dates to remember.
